

Appointments

Martha Lawler is now director of the James Smith Noel Collection at Louisiana State University in Shreveport. She has been a member of ACRL's Rare Books & Manuscripts Section since 1998 and has participated in several projects, including the work of the Bibliographic Standards Committee and the Controlled Vocabularies Editorial Group. Currently, she is a member of the Standard Citation Formats working group and the editorial board of RBM: a Journal of Rare Books, Manuscript & Cultural Heritage. She has worked with the Noel Collection since 1996.

Bethany Nowviskie has been appointed dean of libraries and educational technologies at James Madison University, beginning July 1. Nowviskie currently serves as distinguished presidential fellow at the Council on Library and Information Resources and senior advisor to the Digital Library Federation, where she has served as director for the past four years. Prior to her current position, Nowviskie was the founding director of the library-based Scholars' Lab at the University of Virginia, where she continues to serve as a research associate professor in digital humanities in the department of English. Nowviskie has numerous scholarly publications with several forthcoming in 2019. In 2013, she was named one of the "Ten Tech Innovators" by the Chronicle of Higher Education.

Deaths

Leland M. Park, retired director of Davidson College's E. H. Little Library (1975–2006), has died. Park's career spanned a time from when he was the first Davidson College library staff member with an electric typewriter to the days of digital access. After completing his ROTC obligations to the U.S. Army and a stint as reference librarian in the Charlotte public library, Park returned to Davidson in 1967 as head of reference and student personnel for the library. He stayed for more than 30 years. Under his leadership, the library's offerings complemented what Park saw as a broadening and deepening of the college's core educational mission toward a more interactive and research-oriented approach to education. In 2002, Park established a $1 million endowment to provide support for the directorship of the E. H. Little Library. In 2007, a group of alumni who were influenced by Park established a scholarship in his name. ♪

Leland M. Park

Advertisers

Accessible Archives	209
Atlas Systems	229
Choice Reviews	cover 3
Canadian Science Publishing	239
Human Relations Area Files	189
MIT Press	cover 2
Modern Language Association	241
New York University Press	201
Oxford University Press	185
PBS Distribution	245
Project Muse	186
Space Foundation	233
Stanford University Press	211
Taylor & Francis Group	cover 4
United Nations Publications	223
University of Chicago Press	205

Ed. note: To ensure that your personnel news is considered for publication, write to Ann-Christe Galloway, production editor, C&RL News, at email: agalloway@ala.org.