ACQUISITIONS

• SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY libraries has acquired a collection of Ezra Pound letters and other related items spanning the years 1952 through 1957. In addition to forty-six letters from Pound to Denis Goacher, his literary agent in London, the collection includes two letters from Dorothy Pound to Goacher, a manuscript poem, and twenty-seven other items.

• Twenty-three letters and manuscripts sent by Carl Sandburg to historian James G. Randall have been given to the UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS library's Sandburg Collection by Randall's widow. The gift includes copies of 26 letters, covering the years 1931-53, written to Sandburg by Professor Randall.

Mrs. Ruth Painter Randall also presented the library with a book entitled "Praise for Carl Sandburg," issued in 1953 in a limited edition of 15 copies in honor of the late poet's 75th birthday. The book consists of tributes from Adlai E. Stevenson, Allan Nevins, Robert E. Sherwood, Prof. Randall and others, along with a photograph and autograph of each.

Additional items in Mrs. Randall's gift are three folders of materials relating to Sandburg, a number of miniature books on Lincoln and the Civil War, and several presentation copies of Sandburg's works.

• WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY libraries has augmented its collections with the addition of a new group of the papers of Alexander Trocchi, comprising a part of his Sigma project, conceived in 1963 as an international union of artists and writers, and files on similar artistic and political organizations during the early 1960's. Other additions include correspondence between Ivy Compton-Burnett and Kay Dick; worksheets of Mona Van Duyn's forthcoming collection of poems; drafts of Donald Finkel's two most recent books; correspondence between Robert Sword, Robert David Cohen and other young poets, and single and small groups of the papers of Marianne Moore, Louis Zukofsky, Robert Duncan, Charles Olson, A. E. Hotchner and Robert Creeley.

• The final working manuscript of James Gould Cozzens' Morning Noon and Night has been given to the PRINCETON UNIVERSITY library by the author, together with a copy of the first edition of the new novel. Cozzens has made Princeton a principal depository for his papers and the majority of his manuscripts. The author's gifts, the first of which he made in 1958, have been designated the James Gould Cozzens Papers with the understanding that the collection is closed to access for an indefinite period.

• HEIDELBERG COLLEGE library has received a gift of English and American letters and correspondence from Ralph M. Besse. The collection consists of some 4,000 volumes and a few manuscripts. A special room has been provided for this collection in the new Beeghly library at Heidelberg.

• During the past summer YORK UNIVERSITY libraries acquired most of the stock of Starr's book store in Boston and Ducharme's in Montreal. Starr's book store was noted for its collections in American literature, history, political science, economics and sociology. Ducharme's was outstanding for its stock of out of print French-Canadian material.

• The Ellen Clarke Bertrand library of BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY has recently acquired a collection of letters, documents and books of Oliver St. John Gogarty. The collection was donated by the poet's son, Oliver D. Gogarty of Dublin.

• During the past year the PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY library has acquired a significant collection of papers documenting the labor movement in the United States. In September, 1967, the United Steelworkers of America named Penn State as "provisional repository" for their papers and records. This valuable research material consists of all records which are of sufficient historical importance to justify permanent retention. The collection, when completed, will include records from the USWA International headquarters in Pittsburgh and from 29 District offices.

A comprehensive oral history project has been undertaken to coincide with the acquisition of the USWA papers. This project entails interviews with individuals, both officials and rank-and-filers, who were active in the development of the USWA. To date, 65 interviews have been conducted; tapes and transcripts have been placed in the Labor History Collection.

Among other personal papers added to the collection are those of William B. Dickson, Pennsylvania industrialist of the late nineteenth century; the personal papers of Monsignor Charles Owen Rice, Pittsburgh's "labor priest"; the Harold J. Ruttenberg papers concerning the trade union organization of basic American industry from 1934 to 1946 and the Kathryn Pollak Ellickson Papers, 1935-1937.

The unionization of the coal industry, a topic of special interest in Pennsylvania, is the subject of two other collections, the Mitch Papers and the Kosik Papers. The Mitch Papers document the struggle to organize American miners from 1908 to 1936. Michael Kosik's Papers concern industry-union relations in Pennsylvania's anthracite region.

During the past year a total of about 70 collections have been added to the Labor History Collection. In addition to those already mentioned are collections from the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, Boot and Shoemakers Union, Cigarmakers Union, Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers of America, and the Federated Trades Council of Reading, Pennsylvania, and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

• The UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE Library at Knoxville is the recipient of what has been called the finest private Congreve collection in existence, bequeathed to the University by the late John C. Hodges, Congreve scholar, UT professor emeritus, and Coordinator for Library Development. The collection compares favorably with the collections in the Harvard and Bodleian libraries and in the British Museum, consisting of about 150 original editions of Congreve's works and a large collection of books about Congreve, English drama and the theatre of the 16th and 17th centuries, and material by and about other dramatists of this period. A bibliography of the Congreve titles is now in preparation.

• Two important collections on Austro-Hungarian history and contemporary literature have been purchased for the RICE UNIVERSITY library. The additions are the 3,600-item Stephen K. Swift collection of Austro-Hungarian history, purchased with a gift from the William Stamps Farish Fund, and the 13,000 volume Frederick J. Hoffman collection of 20th century American and European literature. The Swift collection includes such outstanding items as the complete British Intelligence Service reports on Austria from 1945 to 1955; the original charter from the Austrian Empire to the Hungarian government, circa 1527, with the signature and seal of Charles V, and a 360-volume history of the city of Vienna. In addition to a large number of first editions of novels from 1940 to 1967, the Hoffman collec-

FELLOWSHIPS

• The INDIANA UNIVERSITY Libraries announce the continuation of their program designed to give intensive instruction to prospective rare book librarians. The facilities and collections of the Lilly Library will be used as a training center. Two Fellows will be selected for a study program intended to familiarize them with bibliographical methods, the antiquarian book trade, and the organization and management of rare books and special collection departments or libraries. Any graduate of an accredited library school, or person otherwise qualified by experience in the rare book field, and under 45 years of age, who desires to specialize in rare book librarianship may apply for a fellowship. Fellows are required to remain in residence in Bloomington, Indiana, from July 1, 1969, through June 30, 1970, engaged in study programs assigned by members of the Lilly Library staff. Each Fellow will receive a salary of $5,300 for the twelve-month period, subject to withholding tax. At the conclusion of the year, Fellows are expected to find employment in rare book divisions of college, university, and public libraries or in the rare book trade. Fellows will be notified of appointment on or before May 1, 1969. ## GRANTS

• The National Science Foundation has provided a grant of $44,600 to support a one year trial operation of a six-member cooperative book processing center at the UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO. The institutions involved are the University of Colorado, Colorado State University, Adams State College, the Colorado School of Mines and Metropolitan State College. The processing center will order and catalog books for all members, while the members retain the right of individual book selection.

• SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY'S School of Library Science has received a grant of $104,480 from the U.S. Office of Education to support a project to establish an experimental laboratory in which library science students, aided by computer programs, will be able to search and retrieve catalog records for current literature, to process their own cataloging assignments, and to examine the characteristics of Library of Congress cataloging, all of which will help them face some of the problems associated with library automation while they are still in library school. After experimental operation for one year (through Oct. 1969), the laboratory experiences will be evaluated, and if found successful, the program data bases and user manuals will be made available to other library schools. An institute for faculty of American and Canadian library schools is planned for some time in 1969 as part of the project.
