

Personnel

On July 1 ROY L. KIDMAN makes a cross-country move to become university librarian at Rutgers—The State University of New Jersey, leaving a similar post at the University of California, Riverside.

Mr. Kidman

Roy Kidman's professional career includes positions in the law library at UCLA, science librarian at the University of Kansas, acting director and assistant librarian at Tulane University, and biomedical librarian at UCSD. At Kansas he brought together a group of subject libraries, welded them into a smoothly functioning unit, and consolidated book selection in the science library—all with the enthusiastic support of the faculty. At Tulane he was responsible for reader services and helped develop the library's organizational pattern. At UCSD he put life into a wishful hope for a viable biomedical library, planning collections and building with equal skill.

In his two years at UCR, he has had a strong hand in campus planning for accelerating advanced graduate programs and in spelling out the library development necessary to implement those plans. That the aggressive expansion taking place at Rutgers has lured him across the continent is unfortunate for California, but easily understandable.

He has been highly successful in every position he has held, demonstrating strong administrative ability but losing none of his enthusiasm for books. The scholars' and students' requirements for books and library services always remain uppermost. He is a leader in adapting data processing methods and equipment to library use.

At Rutgers he will be managing a complex library system of nearly a million and a half volumes, including the graduate research library, three undergraduate libraries, the library of science and medicine, two law libraries and a number of smaller subject units.

Roy Kidman is a graduate of UCLA and had his professional training at USC. He is active in library association activities, having held important committee assignments for the Medical Library Association and serving as chairman of the Agricultural and Biological Subsection of ACRL in 1966/67.

That welcoming challenge is a family characteristic with the Kidmans is evident in Marilyn Kidman's comment in writing about their pending move, "Life with Roy is so interesting." —Melvin J. Voigt, University of California, San Diego.

The appointment of DEAN F. RITZMAN as director of the Upsala College library has been announced. A native of Gratz, Penn., Prof. Ritzman came to Upsala in 1949 as a member of the department of history. He received his BA degree at Franklin and Marshall College in 1948, and MA in 1949 from the University of Chicago. In 1967 after a year's leave of absence, Prof. Ritzman received the MS degree in library science, with honors, from Columbia University.

Mr. Ritzman

Prof. Ritzman was the recipient of a Martin Luther Fellowship for graduate study from the Lutheran Brotherhood in 1958. In 1962 he was awarded the Service Award by the Upsala Alumni Association for "outstanding service to the college," and in 1965 he received the Distinguished Teaching Award from the Lindback Foundation.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Alpha Theta, the American Library Association, American Historical Association, Organization of American Historians, American Association of University Professors, and the Southern Historical Association. He was the founder and first president of the Civil War Round Table of Northern New Jersey and received a Citation of Merit from the Civil War Centennial Commission. He has published numerous book reviews and articles in historical journals and is a regular contributor to Cross Flags, the publication of the Civil War Round Table.

EDWARD C. LATHEM has been appointed librarian of Dartmouth College effective July 1, 1968.

Dr. Lathem, associate librarian at Dartmouth since 1960, joined the staff in 1952, following the receipt of a master's degree in library service from Columbia University. He had taken his bachelor's degree at Dartmouth in 1951, and in 1961 he earned a doctorate of philosophy from Oxford University.

A productive scholar as well as an administrative librarian, Dr. Lathem has done several volumes relating to Robert Frost and has been instrumental in building up within the Dartmouth library an outstanding collection of Frost manuscript materials. Among the works on Frost written or edited by him are: Interviews with Robert Frost (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1966); Selected Prose of Robert Frost, with Hyde Cox (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1966); Robert Frost and the Lawrence, Massachusetts, 'High School Bulletin,' with Lawrence Thompson (The Grolier Club, 1966); and Robert Frost: Farm-Poultryman (Dartmouth Publications, 1963), also done in collaboration with Professor Thompson.

Mr. Latham has also written on subjects associated with local history and the careers of both Daniel Webster and Calvin Coolidge. He is a trustee of the New Hampshire Historical Society and a member of the American Antiquarian Society. Through his efforts the personal papers of a number of distinguished figures have in recent years come to the Dartmouth library.

His wife is Dr. E. Elizabeth French, daughter of one of the founders of the Hitchcock Clinic in Hanover, New Hampshire, and herself at present a senior member of that Clinic.—Richard W. Morin, Dartmouth College.

Any questions? Let Library Journal answer them.

How complete is it?

Library Journal says: "...the 'reference gap' for philosophy has been bridged in a most impressive manner."

"The 1450 signed articles are comprehensive in scope and treatment."

How reliable is it?

Library Journal says: "The roster of 500 contributors from 24 countries reads like an international who's who of philosophy and cultural history."

Is it culturally objective?

Library Journal says: "Oriental philosophy is covered as thoroughly and authoritatively as our own Western traditions; ancient and medieval philosophers receive a coverage at least equal to that of contemporary thinkers."

Is it both scholarly and stimulating?

Library Journal says: "The manner of presentation is orderly, logical and authoritative."

"... the Encyclopedia of Philosophy is characterized by a lively style and large attractive print that should delight public library patrons as much as university professors."

Is it simple to use?

Library Journal says: "A detailed, easy-to-use subject index greatly enhances the usefulness of this set for nonspecialists."

Does it do justice to "borderline" subjects?

Library Journal says: "... students of science will find references to technical articles..."

"Reference librarians will welcome the exhaustive article on 'Philosophical Dictionaries and Encyclopedias'...and another on 'Philosophical Journals'..."

Who should use The Encyclopedia of Philosophy?

Library Journal says: "Because of its broad coverage and sound scholarship, this encyclopedia is strongly recommended for college, university, and all but the smallest public libraries."

HARLOW CITED

An honorary doctors degree was conferred upon Dean Neal Harlow of the Rutgers University Graduate School of Library Service at a library dedication convocation at Moravian College on October 19. The citation read in part as follows:

The distinguished career of Mr. Harlow in the library profession has extended over a third of a century and has included his service to the Bancroft Library at the University of California at Berkeley, the California State Library, and the Library of the University of California at Los Angeles. Before coming to Rutgers in 1961 Mr. Harlow was for a decade, head of the rapidly expanding library of the University of British Columbia at Vancouver where he also laid the foundation for a new graduate library school.

A past president of the Canadian Library Association, and of the Association of College and Research Libraries, his influence has been felt through numerous library professional committees, International in scope as well as Canadian and American.

A scholarly contributor to journals of West Coast history and author of a valued study of the early maps of San Francisco Bay, Mr. Harlow's numerous articles on Librarianship reflect the rich background of administrative experience, scholarly research, critical thought, keen insight, and human understanding which he has brought to his special concern for the professional education of Librarians.

As librarian, as scholar and man of letters, and as leader in library education, I present Mr. Harlow for the degree of Doctor of Humanities.
