NOTICES

• Input, a newsletter on government publications, is published ten times a year by the Government Publications Department of the University of Waterloo Library, Waterloo, Ontario. It supersedes the newsletter of the Ontario Cooperative Documents Project (CODOC).

Input seeks to provide document librarians with information on publications, people, and programs in government documents. The annual subscription price is $15. Information intended for publication should be sent to Judith A. Boettger, Editor, Input, Government Publications Department, The Library, University of Waterloo, Waterloo, ON N2L 3G1, Canada.

• New Horizons for Academic Libraries, papers presented at the ACRL 1978 national conference in Boston (April 1979, ca. 460p. ISBN 0-89664-093-0, $25), is available from K. G. Saur Publishing.

Focusing on the future of college, university, and research libraries in North America, the volume contains the theme addresses delivered by nationally known speakers in higher education and academic librarianship.

It also includes contributed papers covering such areas as management and governance of libraries; the role of the academic librarian—faculty status, staff development, research interests; economic support and budgeting for libraries; library automation; and cooperative programs among libraries, etc.

For more information on New Horizons for Academic Libraries, contact: Mrs. Mary P. George, General Manager, K. G. Saur Publishing Inc., 175 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10010: (212) 477-2500.

• A new volume in Knowledge Industry Publications' (KIP) Professional Librarian Series is Audrey N. Grosch's Minicomputers in Libraries, 1979-80. Like other titles issued by KIP, this may be the first in an annual series of developments in that rapidly expanding field. A special feature is a directory of installed systems as of June 1978.

• The newest volume (no.40) in the ACRL Publications in Librarianship series includes papers presented in 1977 at the ACRL Rare Books and Manuscripts Section preconference in Toronto. Edited by Richard G. Landon, the volume is entitled Book Selling and Book Buying: Aspects of the Nineteenth-Century British and North American Book Trade. Price: $10 paper.

• The first issue, Spring 1979, of Library Research, the new quarterly journal edited by Melvin J. Voigt and published by Ablex Publishing Corp., has recently appeared. As stated in the opening editorial, "the Editors believe that much of the significant research currently being done is not adequately disseminated to the profession." The new journal is to provide "carefully refereed reports of completed research." The first issue presents five articles on resource sharing, book publishing in Denmark and the United States, use of the Delphi technique, leader behavior, and libraries in Israel. An additional feature of each issue "will be a review of an important research-oriented topic," and the first issue includes Michael E. Roloff's review of communication in libraries. The journal also features book reviews. Subscription price: $35; $18.50 for personal subscription.

• Factors Affecting Administration in United States Academic Libraries during the Period 1971-75, by Anne Marie Allison (Occasional Paper 138, University of Illinois Graduate School of Library Science, 1979, $2 prepaid), presents the results of an ALA survey of 1,032 college and university libraries conducted in 1976.

• Funding Alternatives for Libraries is a new publication from ALA. Edited by Patricia Senn Breivik and E. Burr Gibson, this volume is an outgrowth of an institute held at Pratt Institute in 1976. The various papers offer ideas and methods for obtaining financial support by libraries and include fund-raising programs, special events, direct mail solicitation, foundation support, government funding. Experiences in public, special, and academic libraries are reported. Price: $9.

"designed to teach the principles underlying AACR 2, rather than a detailed knowledge of the rules themselves."

• William Kaufmann Inc., Los Altos, California, has issued Vol. 1 of Victor Bonham-Carter's Authors by Profession ($11.95). This new book gives an account of professional authorship from the fifteenth century to the beginning of the twentieth century and demonstrates "how authors and dramatists have practised their profession; their contractual and personal relations with patrons, publishers and promoters; their situation under the law of copyright; their standing with the public; their part in the trade of books and periodicals and presentation of stage plays; their professional organisations."

• ALA has recently published the third edition of its Book Bait: Detailed Notes on Adult Books Popular with Young People ($4 paper). Included are 100 titles, only 20 of which have been retained from the previous edition.

• Writing the Doctoral Dissertation: A Systematic Approach is a new publication from Barron's ($3.95 paper). Authors Gordon B. Davis and Clyde A. Parker state their purpose is "to assist doctoral candidates in completing a better quality dissertation in a shorter time." Subjects included are choice of an adviser and a dissertation committee; pre-dissertation development activities; selection of a topic; preparation of the proposal; time schedules and budgets; working with the adviser; defense; and eventual publication.

• Barbara Hanson Pierce's Junior Year in Britain (Peterson's Guides, 1979, $7.95 paper plus $1.75 postage and handling) gives information on programs available at fifty-three university units in England, Scotland, and Wales and is designed to assist American college sophomores in planning for a junior year abroad.

• The National College Databank, Karen G. Hegener, editor, is a new reference work from Peterson's Guides ($7.95 paper plus $1.25 postage and handling). This guide is an "academic book of lists," presenting information in tabular form about undergraduate programs of more than 2,500 U.S. colleges and universities—e.g., admissions facts, entrance difficulty, expenses, financial aids, special programs, unusual majors.

• J. B. Post, map librarian at the Free Library of Philadelphia, is the author of An Atlas of Fantasy, a revised edition of which has recently been published by Ballantine Books ($8.95 paper). Maps included range from More's Utopia and Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress to such recent creations as A. A. Milne's Winnie-the-Pooh country, Al Capp's Slobbovia, Faulkner's Yoknapatawpha County, and Austin Wright's Islandia.

NOTICE

Respondents to advertisers offering faculty "rank" and "status" are advised that these terms are ambiguous and should inquire as to benefits involved.

All advertisements for the "Positions Wanted" and the "Positions Open" classifications will be edited to exclude direct or indirect references to race, creed, color, age, and sex as conditions of employment. The American Library Association requires a salary range for all "Positions Open."

Classified advertising orders and copy, and cancellations, should be addressed to the Association of College and Research Libraries, American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611, and should reach that office before the second of the month preceding publication of issue desired. Copy received after that time may be held for the next issue. To insure that readers have sufficient lead time to respond to "Positions Open," advertisers must list closing dates no sooner than the end of the month of publication.

Telephone orders for classified advertising, while not encouraged because of the increased risk of copy error, will be accepted. Calls should be directed to the ACRL office at (312) 944-6780. A confirming order should be mailed to ACRL as soon as possible following the call, along with typewritten copy to be used in proofreading the ad.

Rate for classified advertising is $1.80 per printed line to ACRL members; $2.25 per printed line to non-ACRL members. Individuals who advertise on behalf of organizations will be charged according to the organization's membership status.
