• A limited quantity of the recently published report Order Division Automated System (MARC Development Office, Library of Congress, 1972), is now available for distribution. Single copies may be obtained free on request to the Central Services Division, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20540. The report is a summary description of the Order Division Automated System as it is now operating at the Library. The system automates the preparation and printing of regular and new continuation orders, establishes and maintains a permanent computer file of all orders placed, and establishes and maintains various computer files containing data to assist in order preparation and placement as well as providing supplemental information for Order Division reports. ■■

News From the Sections

AGRICULTURAL AND BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES SECTION

ACRL/ABSS sponsored tour: Members have been invited to visit the National Environmental Research Center and the Desert Research Institute, both at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Departure will be by bus from and return to the convention center. Staff scientists will brief members on the activities of the research centers, including visits to some of their facilities, such as the Experimental Farm, Greenhouse, Whole-body Counter, and the Biology Building. This tour is not exclusively for ABSS members—any ALA member may attend, and 100 persons can be accommodated. Send reservations to Miss Elsie Bergland, Colorado State University Libraries, Ft. Collins, CO 80521 by June 15. Cost will be nominal. Further information will be available at the Local Tours Desk in the Convention Center. ■■
