LARRY X. BESANT is the new director of the Linda Hall Library, Kansas City, Missouri, succeeding Thomas D. Gillies who has been director since 1974. Besant has been assistant director of libraries for public services at Ohio State University since 1972. His appointment was effective July 1.

Besant has a bachelor's degree in chemistry and an MLS from the University of Illinois. He was employed with Chemical Abstracts Service in 1962-1968 and with the University of Houston Libraries in 1968-1971 as assistant director for technical services.

With some 30 professional publications and presentations to his credit on such topics as copyright law, chemical information, periodicals, and library automation, Besant has undertaken many consultantships in those areas. He served as chair of the ALA Planning Committee (1977-1979) and currently serves as councillor on the Executive Council of the American National Standards Committee Z39.

NANCY EATON has been named director of libraries at the University of Vermont, Burlington. She comes to Vermont from the Atlanta Public Library, where she has been head of technical services since 1976.

Prior to that she has served as automation librarian at SUNY/Stony Brook (1974-1976), and assistant to the university librarian (1972-1974), head of the MARC Unit (1971-1972), and cataloger (1968-1971) at the University of Texas at Austin.

Eaton holds a bachelor's degree in English from Stanford University and an MLS from the University of Texas (1968).

In 1970 she was joint editor of Book Selection Policies in American Libraries.

BARBARA FISCHLER has been appointed director of university libraries at Indiana University-

Purdue University at Indianapolis, where she has been acting director since 1981. She has been at IUPUI since 1970, first as circulation librarian and then as public services librarian.

Fischler has a bachelor's degree from Wilson College, two master's degrees from Indiana, and is currently pursuing a specialist degree in the School of Library and Information Science. She holds a part-time appointment as an associate professor at the School.

PHILIP E. LEINBACH, assistant university librarian for personnel at Harvard, has been named university librarian at Tulane University, New Orleans, effective in November. Leinbach has been active in ALA, especially in personnel-related issues. He is currently chair of the ALA task force endeavoring to set up a computer-based national placement service for librarians.

After earning master's degrees in history and library science at Indiana University, Leinbach joined the Harvard Library in 1964 as administrative assistant in the Department of Resources and Acquisitions of the College Library. He became assistant librarian for acquisitions in 1966, followed by an appointment as specialist in book selection in 1967. Leinbach spent 1970-1971 at the University of London as deputy librarian of Queen Mary College in an exchange program. Returning briefly to Harvard as selection specialist, he was appointed personnel librarian in 1972.

Leinbach also served briefly as acting librarian, Andover-Harvard Theological Library, and acting personnel officer for the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. In 1976-1977 he was appointed to chair a committee that audited the salaries of all non-teaching officers in the arts and sciences faculty.

Leinbach also wrote the Handbook for Librarians (rev. ed., 1979). He participated in groups that set up Harvard's tuition assistance plan and longer-service benefits program. This year he was selected by UCLA's Graduate School of Library and Information Science to participate as a Senior Fellow in a special program, funded by the Council on Library Resources, on academic research library management.

MILDRED LOWE, acting director of the Division of Library and Information Science at St. John's University, has been appointed director of the

Philip E. Leinbach

Division effective July 1.

Lowe's undergraduate degree in sociology is from Brooklyn College and her MLS is from Pratt Institute. She received a doctorate in library science from Columbia University under a Title IIB Doctoral Fellowship in 1972. She has been active in the New York Library Association, the American Printing History Association, and the Nassau County Library Association. She served on the ACRL Education and Behavioral Sciences Section's Nominating Committee in 1980-1981.

Lowe served with the New York State Planning Committee for the Governor's Conference on Libraries and as alternate delegate to the White House Conference on Library and Information Services. She was recently appointed to the Task Force on Federal Depository Library Service in New York State.

MARGARET PERRY, assistant director of libraries for reader services at the University of Rochester, has succeeded Edward Johnson as director of libraries at Valparaiso University, Indiana.

Perry has both a bachelor's degree (Western Michigan University) and a master's degree in library science (Catholic University, 1959). She received a Certificate in French Studies from the University of Paris in 1956, and conducted further graduate study at the City College of New York.

She joined the staff at Rochester as head of the Education Library in 1970. In 1975 she was named head of reader services and has twice served as acting director of the University of Rochester Libraries. Perry has also been reference librarian and chief of circulation at the U.S. Military Academy Library, West Point, and U.S. Army civilian librarian in Europe.

Perry has a number of publications to her credit, among them The Harlem Renaissance: An Annotated Bibliography and Commentary (1981), A Bio-Bibliography of Countee P. Cullen, 1903-1946 (1971), and Silence to the Drums: A Survey of the Literature on the Harlem Renaissance (1976). Her short stories earned her a scholarship to the American Writing and Publishing Seminar in Salzburg, Austria, and several prizes.

NATHAN M. SMITH has been named director of the School of Library and Information Sciences at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, effective September 1 for a three-year term. Smith replaces Maurice P. Marchant who returns to the faculty. Smith has been a member of the library school faculty since 1972, specializing in research methodology, scientific literature, and reference service. He co-authored the book SPSS As a Library Research Tool and has often published articles in professional journals.

Smith currently represents Utah on the ALA Council. He holds a Ph.D. in zoology and an MLS from Brigham Young University.

ELIZABETH SNAPP has been named director of libraries at the Texas Women's University, Denton. Snapp was most recently acting director of libraries there from 1979 to 1982. Prior to that she was assistant to the provost of the graduate school (1977-1979), instructor in library science (1977-present), coordinator of readers services (1974-1977), head of acquisitions (1971-1974), and catalog librarian (1969-1971) at TWU.

Elizabeth Snapp

Snapp received an MLS from North Texas State University in 1969 and a master's in history in 1977. She has done additional work at TWU on women in leadership and women in American literature.

During the past year Snapp has served as a national director of Beta Phi Mu and as project director for an NEH consultancy grant on the development of a curriculum and a center for the study of women. Her articles on aspects of the nature and implications of patronage for the printed word have appeared in the Journal of Library History and the Missouri Historical Review.

Eulogy to Someone Else

In its March 1982 Chapter Network, the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists, in Bethesda, Maryland, reported the untimely demise of Someone Else.

"We were saddened to learn this week of the passing of one of the Society's most valuable members—Someone Else. Someone's passing has created a vacancy that will be difficult to fill. Else worked with the Society for many years and did far more than the normal person's work. Whenever leadership was mentioned, this wonderful person was looked to for inspiration as well as results.

"Whenever there was a job to do or a position to be filled or a meeting to attend, one name was on everyone's lips: 'Let Someone Else do it.' Someone is survived by all current Society members and will be especially missed by its inactive members. We hope everyone will actively keep Someone Else's memory alive."

documents for the library and continued to write on the history of libraries, the university, Cape Town, and South Africa.—Winifred B. Linderman.

CHARLES PERCY POWELL, who retired from the Library of Congress in 1965, died on May 13. At the time of his retirement he was historian and reader adviser in the Manuscript Division. ■■
