Hearings on academic status and certification

Guidelines to be reconsidered at Annual Conference in New Orleans on July 10.

At the American Library Association Conference this July, the ACRL Academic Status Committee will be sponsoring a hearing on two new statements. In order for you to have time to read and think about them, they are printed here in their entirety.

The membership of the Association of College and Research Libraries adopted on June 26, 1971, "Standards for Faculty Status for College and University Librarians." However, many college and university librarians do not hold faculty status; instead they have academic status. These librarians
