

Sharon Rogers has been named associate vice president for academic affairs at the George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

Larry Schankman is now reference librarian at Valdosta State College, Georgia.

Diane Shaw has been appointed rare book cataloger at the Smithsonian Institution Libraries, Washington, D.C..

Pamela J. Sherbert has been appointed systems librarian at the Nimitz Library, U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland.

Janice Stagnitto is now conservator in the Smithsonian Institution Libraries Book Conservation Lab, Washington, D.C.

Gil Taylor is now librarian of the Museum Support Center Branch of the Smithsonian Institution Libraries, Washington, D.C..

Ann Weaver is now reference librarian, Loop Campus, DePaul University, Chicago.

Retirements

Robert W. Baumgartner retired from the Government Publications Department at Northwestern University (NU) after 33 years of service. He began at NU in 1959 as a professional assistant in Government Publications; in 1961 became head of the Business Library; in 1963 became head of Government Publications then gave that position up in 1988 for the less stressful position of assistant head.

Advertiser index

AMIGOS	628
Bowker	636
Cambridge Scientific	633
Chadwyck-Healey	667
EBSCO	cover 4
Faxon	639
Graphics Press	625
Interflo	645
Library Corp.	641
Meckler	645
OCLC	665
Rothman	cover 2
Sociological Abstracts	644
H.W. Wilson	cover 3

Ed Davy, Dewey librarian at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for 20 years, retired last summer.

William C. Pollard, librarian at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Virginia, since 1977, retired on June 10, 1992. He had also served as librarian at Old Dominion University and the College of William & Mary, and is a former president of the Virginia Library Association.

Deaths

Clarence Edward Chisholm, associate librarian and chief of access services at Penn State University, died on July 16. Before joining Penn State, Chisholm was head of circulation and interlibrary loan at Ohio University in Athens. He also held various positions at Clinch Valley College of the University of Virginia, Eastern Michigan University, Voorhees College, North Carolina A&T State University, Wilber-force University, Columbus Metropolitan Library, and the Martin Luther King Center for Social Change. A graduate of Johnson C. Smith University in North Carolina, Chisholm later earned an MLS from Atlanta University and an M.A. in English/Afro-American literature from North Carolina A&T State University. He was a member of ALA's Black Caucus and was active in ACRL.

Clarence Chisholm

Nellie M. Homes, former librarian at Cottey College, Nevada, Missouri, died July 3, 1992 at the age of 93. Homes received her B.S. and MLS from Case Western Reserve University. She was librarian at Cottey College from 1945 to 1966, when she retired. After that she spent two years as librarian in geography, history, philosophy, and religion at the University of Missouri-Columbia. She followed that with two years of service at the Kansas City Public Library, before retiring in 1970. Her professional memberships included ALA, ACRL, the Missouri Library Association, and the American Association of University Women. ■