Together, they present the only official narrative of the first 175 years in the history of the Legislative Branch of the U.S. Government.

*".. an essential resource for all courses relating to

The Dual-Media Concept

... saves money and space without sacrificing research effectiveness

As viewed by Evan Farber, author of Classified List of Periodicals for the College Library (Faxon, 1957 & 1970) and a member of the Institute's Editorial Advisory Board,

"Because The Congressional Record and its predecessors contain so much information about the activities of Congress, including the votes and near-verbatim reporting of debates, it is an essential resource for all courses relating to American government and should, therefore, be available in every academic library. On the other hand, its very comprehensiveness not only creates a space problem for most libraries, but also results in disproportionately high acquisitions costs for new libraries attempting to acquire complete backfile runs.

Microfilm offers a partial solution in that it is less expensive initially and saves valuable shelf space. One of the major obstacles to its acceptance however, has been the fact that students and other researchers find that searching for references in microform indexes is inconvenient, time consuming, and ultimately discouraging to effective research.

"Having the Proceedings of Congress available then, in the Dual-Media Edition, with the proceedings and appendices on microfilm and the Sessional Indexes and Histories of Bills and Resolutions in printed form (the Record is almost useless without its Indexes), means that libraries can now offer the wealth of this resource plus the convenience of the Indexes in book format, yet use a minimum of space and money."

Dual-media sets for each Congress and Session are also available, as are single microfilm reels and index volumes. Send for our detailed catalog listing individual units. All items are sold "on approval" and may be returned for credit within sixty days after delivery.

USE THIS CONVENIENT PRICE SCHEDULE AS YOUR ORDER FORM FOR DUAL-MEDIA SETS.

THE UNITED STATES HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS INSTITUTE

... has been founded in Washington, D.C. to republish complete collections of basic out-of-print historical reference materials in "Dual-Media Editions." Initially, special emphasis will be placed on those basic serials which have been recommended for new or expanding academic libraries which are building collections in the fields of U.S. History and Government. These "Dual-Media Editions" will be reproduced in optimum combinations of microfilm and book formats to provide maximum gains in serials reference capacity at minimum cost.

The Microbook™ Library of American Civilization includes 15 sets of catalogs for maximum use by faculty and students.

They'll have author, title, and subject catalogs plus the Biblioguide™ for all 20,000 volumes.

This library is ready to be used the very day you receive it. That's why updated Library of Congress cataloging for author, title, and subject is part of the package. In addition, you get a three volume, 2,000 page Biblioguide, or topical index.

The Biblioguide is an important addition to the standard bibliographic support. It provides some 500 themes of special interest to students of American civilization. Each theme is introduced by a research guide describing the range of materials to be found under the theme in the library and followed by an average of 250 bibliographic citations. This makes a total of approximately 125,000 references on all subjects to help both student and scholar reach deep within the contents of the library.

The Library of American Civilization is offered to you in Microbook form, a book-range microfiche system that puts up to 1,000 pages on a single fiche, or card. For storage, retrieval, check-out and reading convenience, there will be one book per fiche for most single volume works. High resolution readers, including a lap reader, deliver high quality Microbook images, for comfortable extended reading without eye strain.

This 20,000 volume library costs less than $1.00 per volume and takes only card file space. It's the first in a series of Britannica Microbook Libraries.

The Library of American Civilization includes five sets of bound catalogs and Biblioguides and ten sets in Microbook form. Some colleges plan to supply personal catalogs and Biblioguides to key faculty members as an important aid in course preparation and to increase library usage. Standard catalog cards are optional.

Library Resources, Inc.

an ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA Company, Dept. M, 201 East Ohio Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611

SEPT. 30-OCT. 2, 1971: The Indiana Library Association will meet at Stouffer's Inn, Indianapolis, Indiana. Further information can be obtained from Jane G. Flener, President, Indiana Library Association, Indiana University Library, Bloomington, Indiana 47401.

MISCELLANY

• EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY, Ypsilanti, and HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE, Amherst, Massachusetts, will each receive a grant of $50,000 for innovative library-centered programs under a matching fund program of the Council on Library Resources and the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grants for the five-year programs, to which the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Council contribute equally, are being matched in like amounts by the two institutions.

Hampshire College, of which Dr. Franklin Patterson is president, opened this fall as an experimental, independent liberal arts institution. Several interrelated activities are planned in connection with the Hampshire program. These include: investigations of what users do and do not do in libraries; a multimedia orientation program intended to instruct users in self-help; and the training of student reference assistants for service in the library and outside of it. Incident to the project will be the development of a range of video tape, film slides, and limited computer programs in support of a wide variety of user needs and which may also be useful to other libraries. Among other features of the project will be clearinghouse service for information on similar efforts and the possibility of serving as a model for other libraries contemplating such projects.

Eastern Michigan, with a student body expected to exceed 20,000 during the 1970-71 academic year, in its "Library Outreach" program is seeking to identify for the teaching faculty the contributions librarians are prepared to make to the students' learning, to encourage their working together to achieve this goal, and to demonstrate the role librarians can play in the motivation of students. A new position, "Orientation Librarian," is being created and two persons assigned full-time to this work. They will meet with classes and with small groups, hold follow-up sessions, meet the library demands resulting from previously determined student work assignments, endeavor to provide a more personalized approach to specific bibliographic resources, and work toward a closer library-faculty-student relationship. Among other features of "Project Outreach" will be studies of the patterns of library use and comparisons of student groups within and without the program. As at Hampshire, selected students will be trained in the use of basic resources to assist other students at times when professional help is not available.

• Vice Admiral Edwin B. Hooper, USN (Ret.), Director of Naval History, recently announced that all components of the Naval History Division are now located in the Washington Navy Yard, 9th and M Streets, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20390. Previously, most of the Division's offices were in Northwest Washington, at the Main Navy Building.

Of particular interest to scholars is the Navy Department Library, administered by the Naval History Division, which is now in Building 220 of the Washington Navy Yard. This library of approximately 120,000 volumes is an outstanding resource for students of U.S. Naval History and of numerous fields related to the Navy. In addition to published official and unofficial works and extensive holdings of bound serials, the Library has a number of special collections. These include rare books, cartographic materials, manuscript histories, and extensive microfilm holdings. The latter category includes many of the major series of official naval records in the U.S. National Archives. Microfilms and most published works can be made available to scholars through interlibrary loan. A summary of the Library's holdings is now at the press and will be provided to interested scholars upon request.

The Naval History Division's Operational Archives, housed in Building 210, Washington Navy Yard, has extensive collections relating to naval operations, strategy, and policy, primarily dating from 1940 to the present. In addition to official records from naval fleet commands and the Navy Department, the Archives has personal papers of some recent naval leaders and extensive microfilmed holdings of German and Japanese naval archives. Most of the Operational Archives' holdings dating prior to 1953 may be made available to scholars. Detailed information on the resources of the Operational Archives, as well as other repositories in the Washington area, will appear in a revised and enlarged edition of U.S. Naval History Sources in the Washington Area and Suggested Research Subjects, which is scheduled for publication late in 1970. Copies of this publication will be provided to scholars upon request.

• The NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY'S PEACE—JUSTICE—PROGRESS Exhibition, celebrating the 25th Anniversary of the United Nations, is on view in the Central Building of the New York Public Library at Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street. Among the highlights are a handwritten first draft of the Declaration of Human Rights by Rene Cassin of the Provisional French Government, and a typed report on the Commission on Human Rights signed by its chairman, Eleanor Roosevelt.

The exhibition salutes more than twenty years' cooperation between the New York Public Library and the United Nations, whose delegates and staff have the unique privilege of borrowing documents and books from the Research Libraries. This courtesy was extended to the international body in its early years in order to provide it with those essential materials that its own small library at Lake Success did not contain. The present U.N. Library is impressive but specialized, and through its U.N. liaison officer, Dr. Clementine Zernik, the New York Public Library continues to supplement the U.N. collections.

Also included in the exhibition, from the Library's Manuscript Division, are the papers of Sol Bloom, U.S. Representative at the San Francisco Conference and signer of the U.N. Charter for the United States. Significant among these is a copy of the report to the President on the San Francisco Conference containing handwritten messages of thanks to Bloom from Harry Truman, Cordell Hull, Harold Stassen, and Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., among others. Bloom's personal photographic record of the signing of the Charter and events relating to the conference are also on display.

- The UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA libraries have been involved with automation for over five years. Every campus of the University utilizes electronic data processing in some way in its daily operations. Particularly noteworthy are the serials control systems in operation at UCSD and UCD, the book catalog used at UCSC, the circulation system at UCLA, and the subject authority control systems in use at UCSD and UCSB. These pioneering efforts have provided the experience which has now resulted in a new University-wide program aimed at the development of common systems for the UC Libraries which are both more effective and less costly.

The UC LSD Program is the outgrowth of many years of work undertaken by the UC Institute of Library Research under the directorship of Dr. Robert Hayes. The establishment of an operations task force, for library automation, under ILR sponsorship, was promoted and guided by Ralph Shoffner. Other major projects of the ILR include the development of a union catalog supplement; listing library materials acquired by the UC libraries between 1962 and 1967, based on a file of machine-readable records in a MARC format; and the development of a center for information services under an NSF grant which will make available to library patrons throughout the University information contained in a large library of machine-readable data bases.

The new University-wide office responsible for directing the University of California systems development work (including automation) has been established at the Santa Barbara campus. Fred Bellomy, recently appointed manager of the University of California Library Systems Development (UC LSD) Program, was formerly head of the library systems staff at the University library on the Santa Barbara campus. The first year's $300,000 Feasibility Phase has been funded jointly by the Office of the University President and the University libraries. Total development costs for the entire program are projected at more than $15 million and the development is expected to span seven years or more. The objectives of the first year Feasibility Phase includes the establishment, at a high level of confidence, of the potential for significant long-term fiscal advantages to both the state of California and the University.

PUBLICATIONS

- The U.S. National Section of the Pan American Institute of Geography and History has inaugurated a new series of occasional publications on Latin American geography, history, and cartography. The series is designed to stimulate research and writing on Latin America, to provide a forum for the dissemination and coordination of information, and to keep Latin Americanists abreast of current research priorities and goals. The series will consist of bibliographies, pamphlets, and monographs. The first publication, A Bibliography of Latin American Coastal Geomorphology, written by Norbert P. Psuty of Rutgers University, was issued in September. This bibliography should provide an important guide to current research frontiers and problems in Latin American coastal geomorphology. The bibliography includes references from the early twentieth century, although most date from the middle fifties. The bibliography costs $.75. Individuals interested in receiving this publication or announcements of future publications should contact Dr. Arthur L. Burt, Chairman, U.S. National Section, PAIGH, Department of State (Room 8847), Washington, D.C. 20520.

- The Committee on Gerontology, Western Michigan University, announces publication of a recently compiled bibliography, Gerontology; an Annotated Bibliography of Selected Publications Available in the Dwight Waldo Library. The bibliography lists guides, handbooks, dictionaries, encyclopedias, bibliographies, periodicals, indexes, abstracts, dissertations, statistical sources, directories, and state and federal documents as sources for the study of gerontology. In addition, the Appendix lists practical information about organizations working with the aged. Although this bibliography is geared primarily to help students and researchers on our campus, it would also be valuable to persons anywhere who are interested in the problems of old age, since many of the materials listed can be found in most libraries. The bibliography consists of 47 pages compiled by Dr. Louis Kiraldi, Documents Librarian, and is available for $2.00 from the Division of Continuing Education, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan 49001.

- The August 1970 issue of the list of Graduate Library School Programs Accredited by the American Library Association is available upon request from the Office for Library Education, American Library Association, 50 East Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Issued semiannually by the Association's Committee on Accreditation, the official list gives the name and address of each library school offering an accredited program, the name of the dean or director, and the name of the degree to which the accredited program leads. Other information includes the number of hours of work required for the degree, the undergraduate prerequisites if any, and the cost of tuition. Library schools offering doctoral and post-Master's specialist or certificate programs are so designated on the list.

- In response to the need for bibliographical control of U.S. Government publications printed outside the U.S. Government Printing Office, the Library of Congress has recently issued Non-GPO Imprints Received in the Library of Congress, July 1967 through December 1969: A Selective Checklist. Prepared by the Federal Documents Section of the Library's Exchange and Gift Division, the Checklist is limited to those non-GPO imprints deemed to be of some research or informational value and which fall outside the scope of the Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, as well as the other main bibliographies of United States Government-sponsored publications. The Checklist is divided into two sections. The first contains 1,112 monographs and monographs in series. These entries are arranged alphabetically by corporate heading and numbered so that they may be approached through the subject index. The section lists periodicals, also arranged alphabetically by corporate heading, but unnumbered since no subject headings have been assigned to them. This publication is available postpaid from the Card Division, Library of Congress, Building 159, Navy Yard Annex, Washington, D.C. 20541 for $1.25.

- A Research Design for Library Cooperative Planning and Action in the Washington,

D.C. Metropolitan Area, prepared by Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Management Consultants, is available in limited quantities from the Biological Sciences Communication Project of the George Washington University Medical Center, 2001 S Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009. Contact the Center regarding price.

- The George Peabody Library School has published Toward an Environmental Source Book, a collection of reviews, bibliographies, and proposals prepared by a class in the School of Library Science. This 55-page publication on a topic of vital interest contains a great deal of information on the literature related to the environment, including detailed bibliographies of books, periodicals, and films. A section on "Voices for the Wilderness" describes some organizations dedicated to conservation of our resources, and "Problems and Proposals" suggests courses of action to follow Earth Day. This publication is available for $1 (prepaid, check or money order) from the School of Library Science, George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee 37203.

- The School of Library and Information Services of the University of Maryland has announced the publication of The Universal Decimal Classification, a programmed instruction course by Hans Wellisch. With the aid of this book, students can become familiar with the principles and techniques of UDC in a classroom situation; it may be used as a manual for self-instruction by those who look to the UDC as a suitable system for the organization of information. The Universal Decimal Classification by Hans Wellisch—School of Library and Information Services, University of Maryland, 1970, SBN 911 808-04-4—is distributed by the Student Supply Store (University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland 20742) at $3.50 a copy.

- The Yale University Library Development Department has made available for general distribution a new document relating to the Yale Bibliographic, which is now completing its third year of use at the Yale Medical Library. The Yale Bibliographic System User's Handbook (Document D-12) is a loose-leaf document, comprising about 92 pages, which contains sections on cataloger's instructions, key-puncher's instructions, proofreader's instructions, error and operational messages, control cards, etc. The Manual sells for $3.50. Checks should be made payable to the Yale University Library. Also available is the Yale Bibliographic System Time and Cost Analysis which sells for $1.12. ■■
