News Notes

• The Baker & Taylor Company and the State Education Commission of the People's Republic of China have signed a multi-year contract for the sale of books to colleges and universities throughout that country. Most of the books are expected to be scholarly, scientific and technical titles. The contract continues and expands an initial agreement signed several years ago. Baker & Taylor exhibited more than 1,500 U.S. titles at the Beijing Book Fair in September.

• The University of California-Davis recently selected a copy of Charles Estienne's L'Agriculture et Maison Rustique, published in Paris in 1570 and bound with Jean de Clamorgan's La Chasse du Loup, as the Libraries' two millionth volume. These classic French works on agriculture and rural life contain chapters on grape-growing, wine-making, horticulture, distillation, animal husbandry and hunting. The volume was presented in honor of Maynard A. Amerine, professor emeritus of viticulture and enology, by a group of California vintners and alumni of the university.

• The University of Georgia, Athens, has established a rare book and manuscript library in honor of Felix Hargrett, an alumnus who has given the university thousands of books including many rare titles. The new library contains the university's rare book, Georgiana and manuscript collections. Hargrett, a retired insurance executive, has donated more than 12,000 printed items, including six incunabula, and more than 10,000 manuscripts since 1953. A large collection of materials from the Confederacy is of particular interest. ■■

Profiles

MARY J. CRONIN, formerly director of university libraries at Loyola University of Chicago, was named university librarian at Boston College, Massachusetts, effective September 8.

Holder of a bachelor's degree in modern languages from Emmanuel College in 1969, Cronin received master's and doctoral degrees in German literature from Brown University in 1971 and 1974 respectively, and an MLS from Simmons College in 1973.

Cronin was coordinator of the Boston Library Consortium and worked at the Boston Public Library from 1974 to 1976. Prior to her position at Loyola she served as assistant director for public services at Marquette University and on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee School of Library and Information Science. Cronin has developed workshops, seminars and training programs for organizations including the Office of Management Studies, the State Library of Wyoming, the University of Maryland Libraries, and the Division of Library Services of the State of Wisconsin.

ADELE S. DENDY has been named director of libraries and satellite centers at Hampton University, Virginia, effective July 1.

Dendy received her doctorate in higher education administration from Indiana University in 1985 and holds a master's in education from Indiana (1980), an MLS from the University of Pittsburgh (1970) and a bachelor's degree from Temple University (1963). From 1982-86 Dendy was education librarian and head of the education library at Indiana, serving previously as head of the media center, where she had responsibility for nonprint media collection development.

Adele S. Dendy

Dendy is immediate past chair of the ACRL Educational and Behavioral Sciences Section, and chaired two EBSS committees: Problems of Access and Control of Education Materials (1982-84), and Curriculum Materials (1984-85). She has served on the ACRL Audiovisual Committee, the LITA Membership Committee, and the ALA President's Committee on Library Services to Minorities (1984-86). Dendy currently serves on the ACRL Appointments (1986) and Nominations (1987) committees.

JO ANNE HAWKINS, head librarian in the circulation services department at the University of Texas at Austin, has been promoted to head librarian.

Associated with the UT-Austin Libraries for 19 years, first as a reference librarian and later as head of Inter-Library Service, Hawkins will continue her library-wide responsibilities in circulation services. She is credited with a number of improvements in General Libraries services, including helping to develop and implement the computer-based Interactive Circulation System and a mail-renewal service for faculty members.

Jo Anne Hawkins

In 1983, Hawkins received a $1,000 Librarian Excellence award from the university and was named an outstanding alumna of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science. She also holds a B.A. in studio art from UT-Austin and is enrolled in a master's program at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs.

MARY REICHEL, formerly head of reference at Georgia State University, assumed duties September 1 as assistant university librarian for central services at the University of Arizona, Tucson.

Reichel is a graduate of Grinnell College and holds an M.Sc.Econ from the University of Wales and an MLS from the University of Denver. She is currently working toward a Ph.D. in educational administration at Georgia State.

Mary Reichel

Active in ACRL, Reichel is past chair of the Bibliographic Instruction Section, has served on the Appointments (1984) and Nominations (1985) committees and has served on the Academic Status Committee for four years. She has published several journal articles and given papers and presentations on topics related to bibliographic instruction, including papers at the 1981 Second International Conference and the 1982 12th Annual Library Instruction Conference at Ypsilanti, Michigan. Reichel has also given papers on the impact of online searching for research and teaching to the American Political Science Association and the International Studies Association.

ADA M. SELTZER has been named director of the Rowland Medical Library at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, Jackson, effective December 1.

Seltzer is currently director of public services at the University of South Florida Medical Center Library, and succeeds Irene Graham, who retired June 30 after 31 years as the Mississippi Medical Center's first director. Holder of a bachelor's degree from Kutztown University of Pennsylvania (1964) and master's degrees from Florida State University (1965) and USF (1971), Seltzer was assistant librarian at that institution from 1965 to 1968 and associate librarian from 1969 to 1971. In 1971 she became university librarian in the reference department of the Medical Center Library and became director of public services in 1974.

Ada M. Seltzer

Seltzer is a life member of ALA and is past president of the Florida Health Sciences Library Association and of the Florida Library Association. She is former chairperson of the Medical Library Association's Florida Chapter, and has served as a consultant to several libraries in the state. Seltzer has also developed and implemented a federally funded project to compile a statewide listing of journals and periodicals received by Florida libraries.

ALAIN SEZNEC, former dean of Cornell University's College of Arts and Sciences, Ithaca, New York, and a professor of French at Cornell, has been named the new Carl A. Kroch University Librarian, effective November 5.

Seznec joined Cornell's Department of Romance Studies in 1958 after five years as an instructor at Harvard University. He spent five years as associate dean of arts and sciences prior to being named dean and is credited with helping improve the college's budget, facilities, and hiring of women faculty.

Alain Seznec

An expert in 17th-century French literature, Seznec succeeds Louis E. Martin, who left the post in 1985, and J. Gormley Miller, a former libraries director who served as acting university librarian during 1985-86.

GEORGE V. SUMMERS has been named library director at East Stroudsburg University, Pennsylvania.

From 1964 to 1978, Summers worked at Loma Linda University in California as university library director, professor and lecturer in health education, and supervised the installation of the On-Line Information Retrieval Service and OCLC at Loma Linda. He was also responsible for the interior design and layout of a $2.5 million academic research library and a $5 million academic health sciences library there. Later Summers became visiting professor in the School of Library Science at the University of Southern California, and spent the past five years as a medical librarian at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. He is experienced in grants administration and has compiled an index to Hong Kong Taxation by David Flux, published in 1981 by the Chinese University Press.

Summers holds a doctorate in library science from the University of Southern California and an MLS from Drexel University. He completed additional graduate work in English at the University of Maryland and Lehigh University and received a bachelor's degree in English from Columbia Union College.

Miriam Dudley BI Librarian of the Year Award

At the 1983 ALA Annual Conference in Los Angeles, the ACRL Board of Directors established the Miriam Dudley Bibliographic Instruction Librarian of the Year Award, an annual award of $900 presented to a librarian who has made an especially significant contribution to the advancement of bibliographic instruction. The award honors Miriam Dudley, whose pioneering efforts in the field of bibliographic instruction led to the formation of the ACRL Bibliographic Instruction Section.

Nominees for the Miriam Dudley Bibliographic Instruction Librarian of the Year Award should have achieved distinction in such areas as planning and implementation of a bibliographic instruction program that has served as a model for other programs, development of courses on bibliographic instruction in ALA-accredited library schools, or development of bibliographic instruction continuing education courses that have served as models for other courses, research and publication that has had a demonstrable impact on the concepts and methods of teaching bibliography, and/or active participation in organizations devoted to the promotion and advancement of bibliographic instruction. Nominees need not necessarily meet all the criteria.

The award is for one individual each year. An individual may receive the award only once. The award will not be made if there are no acceptable nominees.

The award is funded by Mountainside Publishing Company on behalf of their publication, Research Strategies: A Journal of Library Concepts and Instruction. The ACRL BIS Miriam Dudley Bibliographic Instruction Librarian of the Year Award Committee is appointed each year by the chair-elect of BIS and always includes the chair of BIS and the past chair (who serves as chair of the Award Committee).

The deadline for nominations for the 1987 award is December 1, 1986. Send nominations to: Mary Reichel, Chair, Miriam Dudley BI Librarian of the Year Award Committee, University Library, University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ 85721; (602) 621-2101.

Non-library administrator's viewpoint

To the Editor:

One sentence in Rebecca Kellogg's enlightening article in the September C&RL News on the perspective of the non-library administrator is particularly pertinent: "I really have nothing until they (articles and books) are retrieved and photocopied for me." Here at Indiana University we have tried to meet this need through an innovation we call the Bloomington Delivery Service. We offer expedited book and photocopy delivery service to faculty, staff, and graduate students.

Requests can be sent via campus mail, phone, or electronic mail. Book delivery is free and articles are retrieved and copied for 10¢ per page. Currently we are working with our Academic Computing Center to create a total information environment. Step one of this process involves blurring the lines between the delivery service and traditional interlibrary loan.

The service has proven immensely popular, with patron usage increasing by 52% over the last year. We are extremely pleased with our success and hope to continue to refine our service as new technologies surface. —Judith A. Copley, Head, Interlibrary Loan Services, and Cyd Duncan, ILL/BDS Supervisor, Indiana University.

Speech writing

To the Editor:

Susan Matson's article in the September C&RL News on how to develop a research paper was absolutely marvelous. I look forward to a sequel, in which she may give pointers on how to convert the oral presentation into an article suitable for publication. She will, I know, reveal the secrets for convincing readers of the importance of the article without, of course, their feeling any need actually to read it. —William J. Myrick, University Associate Dean for Libraries, The City University of New York. ■■
