DR. H. WILLIAM AXFORD becomes UNIVERSITY OF OREGON librarian July 1, 1973. Dr. Ax-

Dr. H. William Axford

ford is a graduate of Reed College in Portland, where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1950. He has pursued studies in history and political science at the University of Washington and received his Master of Arts degree in librarianship from the University of Denver, which in 1969 also awarded him the Doctor of Philosophy degree in history.

His professional library career includes the posts of head librarian at the Denver Post, assistant director and director of libraries at the University of Denver, director of libraries at Florida Atlantic University, and Arizona State University librarian. He has been active, serving as an officer and on committees, in the American Library Association, the Special Libraries Association, the Colorado Library Association, and the Mountain Plains Library Association. In 1971, he served as president of the Library Automation, Research and Consulting Association. He currently is chairman of the executive board of that association. Dr. Axford was elected vice-president of ACRL this past June.

Dr. Axford is the author of Gilpin County Gold published in the summer of 1972, and of numerous articles for professional journals.

HAL B. SCHELL took over as dean of library administration and director of libraries at the UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI on January 15 of this year. Mr. Schell comes to Cincinnati after four years as associate director of libraries at Southern Methodist. Prior to this he worked at Cornell and the Universities of Maryland and Pittsburgh. In each position he was heavily involved in planning for the construction of major library facilities, including the Olin Library at Cornell and Hillman Library at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Schell has been very active professionally, including several ALA assignments, and has two articles in the Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science. He is currently working on a reader on library buildings, to be published this year. He has recently received a Council on Library Resources Fellowship for 1973-74 to analyze the facilities planning process for academic libraries. Mr. Schell is married to Joan Schell, also a librarian.

THOMAS HARDY

An Annotated Bibliography of Writings About Him

Compiled and edited by Helmut E. Gerber and W. Eugene Davis

By the time of his death in 1928, Thomas Hardy had gained a measure of national respect tendered to few English authors of the past century. From the perspective of the mid-20th century, it is hard to realize that Hardy was indeed a controversial author whose descriptions of deep human passions aroused the wrath of a large segment of the Victorian literary public. In fact, public disapproval of his novels was so great that by 1897 Hardy gave up fiction and turned instead to poetry. But even at the height of controversy, Hardy had his supporters among critics in the United States and England, as may be seen from the reviews and articles cited in this volume.

As Hardy's reputation has increased steadily over the past one hundred years, critical attention has come to encompass the entire range of his work — the novels, of course, and the tremendous quantity of verse and drama of his "later years."

This volume covers 99 years (1871-1969) of published responses to the writings of Thomas Hardy.

AT LAST:

A social sciences reference tool that's easy to use, highly current, and multidisciplinary too!

Beginning in 1973 it will be a lot easier to search the social sciences journal literature if your library has the new Social Sciences Citation Index™ (SSCI™).

SSCI will offer an integrated search system designed to overcome the ambiguous terminology and wide scatter of related articles that used to make social science searches so difficult. It will take advantage of two powerful retrieval methods:

Citation Indexing—which utilizes the fact that an article's reference citations to earlier publications are excellent indicators of the subject of the article, and Permuterm® Indexing—a natural language system that pairs every significant word in an article's title with every other word in that title to produce extremely specific, two-level indexing entries.

With SSCI, all you'll need to start a search on any subject is the name of a key author in the field of interest or any English word that is descriptive of the subject. There's no need to master specialized search vocabularies or complex classification schemes.

With SSCI you won't have to use a half-dozen discipline-oriented indexes to assure comprehensive searches. A single look-up lets you search the entire output of over 1,000 journals from all the fields relevant to the social sciences including anthropology, community health, demography, economics, educational research, ethnic group studies, geography, history, law, linguistics, management, marketing, political science, psychiatry, psychology, sociology, statistics, and urban planning and development.

And because SSCI will be computer-produced, it will be the most current index of its size. That means you'll find new articles while they're still new.
