2nd Annual International Conference on Cognitive and Behavioral Psychology (CBP 2013)

25-26 February, 2013

Singapore

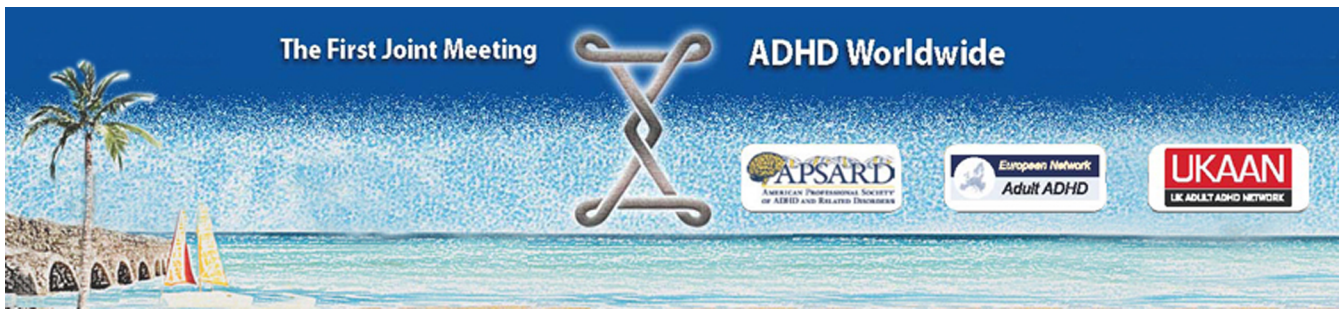

Going beyond the study of the human mind, academics and professionals working in the field of Psychology now play a pivotal role in promoting the development as well as recovery of mental health on a global scale. This is even more so with the global shift in focus of mental healthcare services from traditional methods to community-based and family-focused practices. Psychology professionals now more than ever are being called upon to respond to the needs of society and individuals experiencing crisis in different forms such as war, famine, economic turmoil, crime, murder, abuse, loneliness, and despair.

This conference aims to bring together the world's leading researchers, engineers and scientists whose professional interests involve psychological theories and practices. The conference will also provide a valuable opportunity for psychology professionals from different cultural backgrounds and diverse fields to explore the global impact of psychology as a field of practice on community and individual mental health care.

Global perspectives shall complement discussions regarding the generation, promotion and implementation of evidence-based psychological practice. Through the sharing and exchange of information about the latest developments in the field of psychology among experts from across the globe, the Conference shall be able to generate a major contribution to the formulation of global and regional strategies in the advancement of psychology.

The 1st Joint Meeting - ADHD Worldwide 2012

27 February, 2013

Tel Aviv, Israel

We are delighted to invite you to participate in the 1st international meeting on ADHD in adults being hosted jointly by the European Network Adult ADHD (ENAA) and the American Professional Society of ADHD and Related Disorders (APSARD). In recognition of the impact of ADHD on people across continents, the meeting is called "ADHD Worldwide". Our primary goal is to share the experiences and expertise of our colleagues from across the globe, and to discuss the diversity of approaches we have developed to address ADHD as a lifespan disorder. Our audience will include healthcare professionals, scientists and, on the last day of the meeting, the broader community of stakeholders whose lives are affected by ADHD.
