

IJAHP is Ten Years Old

April 20, 2018

This issue marks the start of our tenth year in production. Our IJAHP team is proud to reach this important milestone, and we can assure you this year will bring important improvements for our publication. As a start, we have recently migrated to the newest OJS platform which has allowed us to provide a more vibrant look for the journal as well as improve the publication workflow process.

Also, this is a special year because for the first time we will need to work without the inspiration and enthusiasm of Tom Saaty, AHP/ANP creator and founder of this journal. While he was the spiritual force behind AHP/ANP diffusion, we remain fully committed to continue his legacy. For this year, we plan to publish a special issue on Fuzzy AHP and to sponsor the International Symposium of the Analytic Hierarchy Process ISAHP2018 that will take place in Hong Kong, July 12-15.

We expect to publish the best papers presented at the ISAHP2018 meeting, and will also be present in a panel of editors to share our collective experience with the new generation of AHP/ANP scholars and practitioners. In addition, we will offer a workshop on how to improve ANP reporting to help improve the overall quality of ANP publications.

Looking forward to meeting you at ISAHP2018 in Hong Kong!
