

Notes from of Editor-in-Chief

Mirjana Radović-Marković

JWE journal is in its sixth year now, and during several years it has been referred to by the Ministry of Science, Education and Technological Development of the Republic of Serbia. Besides this, the journal is present in the dozen international journal bases like Doaj, EcoLit, Copernikus, Google Scholar and others. During these years the journal has gained the reputation in the domestic and international circles, which is confirmed by the fact that it has already published more than one hundred scientific papers from more than thirty countries from all the continents.

The first number of the JWE journal for 2014 is thematically divided into two parts: the first part comprises the practical examples and researches in the area of the female entrepreneurship, while the second part comprises different aspects of female entrepreneurship in Africa.

The following issue of the magazine will be thematic and it will refer to gender aspects of entrepreneurship in tourism. Our guest editor will be Prof. Dr. Zélia Breda, University of Aveiro, Portugal. Therefore, I appeal to the potential authors, for the following issue, to send in the papers that deal with the mentioned topic. All papers should be sent to the e-mail of the magazine until 1. September 2014. All authors should follow the technical instructions for writing the papers. Papers are subject to the blind peer review and the ones that do not meet the high standards of the JWE, will not be taken into consideration for publishing.

We would like to express gratitude to all authors we cooperated with and the members of the editorial board for a successful and constructive cooperation. We would also like to invite the future authors and reviewers to contact us and to send in the papers in large numbers. In this way they will also become a part of the great network of scientists who are interested in gender aspects of entrepreneurship and education. They will also be able to suggest the topics of the future issues, exchange the useful information and send in their critical overviews.
